METEOR

We dedicate this annual to Miss Verla Oare in appreciation for her tireless efforts in making it a success.

In Memoriam

*The soul of one so sweet and pure,
Lies 'neath the heavens so blue,
Where leaves may fall upon the ground
Shrouded by silver dew.*

*Where her soul may meet the morning
Rising to the sky,
Where she may see many new things
Not seen by living eye.*

*But we can't hear that ringing voice,
The laughter that rang so clear,
But we have the memories of yesterday,
And we hold them very dear.
And so in thy memory, Peggy Lee White,
We lift our heads in prayer,
And know with God
She will be
More secure than anywhere.*

TRATION

R. E. BOOTH

T. G. GRIEDER

Since coming to Winslow in 1931, Theodore G. Grieder has aided Winslow High School both in progress and in prominence. Mr. Grieder was principal of the high school during his first year here. From 1932 to 1934 he held both the superintendent's and principal's positions. In 1935 the principalship was turned over to R. E. Booth.

Mr. Grieder has recently taken the presidency of the Arizona Educational Association and has represented the Winslow schools in the National Educational Association and the National Superintendents' convention.

Superintendent Grieder is a graduate of Iowa State University and holds a master's degree from the same institution.

Starting from a lower rung, Raymond E. Booth has gradually progressed toward the top. Coming to Winslow in 1929, he was appointed head of the science department. In 1934 he became vice-principal, taking over full responsibilities of the position in 1935. Mr. Booth has done much for the school by sponsoring the student council organization, the Bulldog Rumpus, and the mimeographed annual.

Principal Booth is a graduate of Kansas State Teachers' College and holds a master's degree from the University of Arizona.

FACULTY

Oare, Potthoff, Tolson, Winn, Olmsted, Naysmith
Kerlin, Walliman, Wilson, Ward, Godsell, Carron
Letts, Lewis, Boyer, Ostlie

MUSIC

Mr. Selmer Ostlie is the very capable head of the W. H. S. music department. He directs both the boys and girls glee clubs, band and orchestra. Besides all these, he has extra work with beginners' band, a cappella choir special groups and solo numbers for various school activities.

DRAMATICS

Miss Kathleen Kerlin has for a number of years directed all the dramatic ventures of our students, as she is especially interested in this work. She conducts a class in public speaking and has acquired quite a name for herself by her excellent coaching of students from this school who have competed in state contests.

LANGUAGE

Mrs. Godsell and Mrs. Lewis both teach foreign language. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Godsell teach classes of Latin and Mrs. Lewis also teaches Spanish. Each of these languages has both first and second year classes.

HOME ECONOMICS

We have had a new teacher, Miss Tolson, in this department this year. These classes are for girls, to teach them how to sew and cook, but for two weeks of this school year Mr. Olmsted, head of wood-working department, and Miss Tolson traded two of their classes.

MANUAL ARTS AND MECHANICAL DRAWING

Mr. Olmsted taught all classes of these subjects this year. His classes are rather large and have done some remarkable work in competition with other schools as well as in their everyday work.

HISTORY

Miss Oare teaches all classes of history: freshman and sophomore, World History; junior, American History; and senior, Social Problems and American Government. Through her efforts almost all of the seniors were able to pass the hardest state test on American Government that has ever been given to this school.

MATHEMATICS

Mr. Wilson directs all the mathematics except the mid-year class of first year algebra, which is taught by Mr. Letts. This department consists of commercial arithmetic, first and second year algebra, plane geometry, solid geometry, and trigonometry.

ENGLISH

The English departments are conducted by Miss Kerlin and Mrs. Godsell. In this department is taught English grammar and literature to all the high school classes.

ATHLETICS

Coach Wilson has charge of first team basketball and football. Coach Olmsted has charge of second team basketball and football, and also the track team. The activities of this department establish more interest than any other in school.

COMMERCE

This department consists of bookkeeping, shorthand, and first and second year typing. The teachers of these subjects are Miss Naysmith and Mr. Ward.

SCIENCE

Mr. Potthoff is head of science, teaching general science, biology and chemistry. Mr. Booth teaches one class of physics each day. The laboratory is well equipped and the classes were able to make a number of interesting experiments pertaining to their respective subjects.

In 1932 Winslow High School organized its student government for the first time. Ralph Blankenship was the student body president. The student body set an ideal in this year for future organizations to follow. Each year the student body government has been enlarging and progressing in its projects and purposes. In 1935 the swim meet and carnival were started and these events have been successfully carried out since that time. In 1937 the spring formal was held for the first time. The ideal of the Winslow High School Student Body Organization is "Let the students govern themselves."

"Once upon a time" just four years ago about one hundred pupils entered high school. They had little thought of the day which was not far off when they would leave their dear old Alma Mater. During that first year they aided in giving the Junior-Freshman dance, which was one of the most successful dances of the year. The class was well represented in athletics and also took an active part in the annual contest at Flagstaff.

During the sophomore year we established ourselves in athletics as well as music. Bob Mulleneaux directed the destinies of the class during this year.

In the beginning of our junior year our number had decreased to forty-four. We again helped to give a successful Junior-Freshman dance before the holidays. During this year

Howard Lloyd held the office of president. On the 21st of April, 1936, the junior play entitled, "Second Childhood," was presented, and because of its great success the best prom in many years was held. The Hawaiian motif was carried out in the decorations, programs, and favors.

Eagerly, and with much expectation, the Class of '37 started on its last year in Winslow High School.

The class play, "Your Uncle Dudley," was produced on December 11, and was declared a great success.

All the traditions of Ditch Day, Kid Day, Senior Week, and the Senior Hop were carried out as in former years. The Class of 1937, on the night of May 31, bade farewell to four happy years in Winslow High School.

Immediately after this now so important class entered high school, things began to happen. In the contest at Flagstaff in April, 1935, both the mid-year and regular freshmen gained recognition in scholastic and musical events. In athletic and social affairs of the year, this enterprising class again did its part. The end of their career as freshmen found the members of the class happily anticipating a bigger and better year as sophomores.

The school year of 1935-36 was also a busy one for the new "sophs." Again at Flagstaff many awards were won by wide awake Winslow students, several of which were members of this class. In athletic events we were well represented by such fellows as Charles Reeder, Merlin Jensen, Bob Sherer, and Ed Bell. On such occasions as the carnival, the dances, and the school picnics, this class proved itself worthy of the title—sophomores.

As juniors we have big plans and willing workers, and therefore we feel we are bound to succeed. The class assembly, the junior play, the Junior-Freshman dance, and Junior Prom are all a challenge for the class to do better than they have already done in the past. So far we feel we have done well and as we approach our final year in high school we are confident that we shall, indeed, be the "high and mighty seniors."

Sophomores! and, as it is said, "wise fools." And since they first embarked into high school, they have shown remarkable signs for progress. First, they took a step into the social world with the Junior-Freshman dance. Its success was an incentive to do more.

At Flagstaff the class displayed such determination that no one could quell their quest to gain the awards in the musical and academic contest. During our first year Frankie Edwards and Emi Matsuda went for first year typing; Emi Matsuda represented the school in algebra and brought back first prize; Frank Nelson rated second in the clarinet solo. Others were in the band and glee clubs.

Emi Matsuda's name has been engraved on the cup awarded by the Honor Society for having had the highest scholastic rating among the members of the freshman class.

As sophomores, they gave their first stage presentation with an assembly program for the school and visitors.

This year the class was second to none in scholarship, and upheld this high rating in the contests again he'd at Flagstaff.

Their prospects as juniors and seniors are the best for one of the "top-notch" classes in Winslow High School.

When the freshmen entered high school in the year of 1936, we had a total of about ninety-eight pupils. But as the first semester rolled by, our number grew until we reached one hundred three. Roger Stiles, our class president, was a very good one. All of us took part in the projects which were suggested to us. Almost every member contributed his share of class dues, and we were able to plan a dance to be given with the juniors for the student body.

The freshmen are considered green and very low down on the human scale by the higher classmen, and our superior classmen are no doubt correct in assuming this attitude. Nevertheless, we have tried to be good sportsmen. Some freshmen are in the band and in the orchestra, while others are out for glee club. In football and in basketball the freshmen have attained some small honors. Our classmen who have won letters have made us very proud of them.

At the beginning of the second semester many of the freshmen left us to enter the sophomore class of 1937. We were sorry to lose many of our active members. Early in the semester we began to plan an assembly program for April 23. Our dance given the night of March 12 was attended by a good crowd of students and faculty members. We hope we were successful in entertaining our friends. All the freshmen expect to keep our present good class spirit and as sophomores next year, we anticipate further accomplishments.

BULLDOG BARKS

The Bulldog Barks is a bi-monthly publication of the students of Winslow High School. It was established in 1931, by Mr. Grieder, and since that time it has continued as such, the editor being elected by the student body each year.

A contest was held to determine the name of our paper. The name, Bulldog Barks, which was suggested by Pauline Yoder, was chosen.

Janet Waits edited the paper for the first two years. Thereafter, in succession the editors were Mayfair Mersfelder, Roderick McClung, Rosalie Bennett, Phillip Lancaster, and Marie Jones.

The Honor Society was organized in the spring of 1935 by Jim Bly, who was president of the high school. Jim Bly had a constitution drawn up and applied for a chapter with the State Honor Society, Natonie. Harry Simmons was elected president.

The purposes of this organization are to promote leadership, scholarship, and service in Winslow High School. Members to the Honor Society are chosen on the basis of these three qualities. But before a person is eligible for membership he must rank in the upper 15% of the junior class or the upper 25% of the senior class.

Each year the Honor Society engraves on a cup the name of the freshman who has the highest scholastic average in his class. Last year Emi Matsuda's name was inscribed upon the cup.

PEP SQUAD

This is the tenth anniversary of the Pep Squad, which was founded in 1927 by a former teacher, Miss Blackburn. This year's group is the largest Pep Squad in the history of Winslow High, and we probably carried on more activities than any other one squad. At the beginning of the year twenty-six new members were elected, making a total of forty-one.

The initiation lasted one day, during which the "rats" had a very hard time. They had to wear old overalls, shirts, and shoes. An onion around their necks was their chief ornament. After the bell rang for every class each "rat" had to take a big bite of her onion. At noon they brought lunch for themselves and their "superiors." The initiates were introduced in an assembly given for that purpose, and then that evening the whole Pep Squad went to the show.

On the evening of September 18, the organization gave a dance, the first one of the school year.

Next came the Pep Squad play. It was a mystery thriller, made up entirely of girls, entitled, "Ladies in Waiting," directed by Miss Kerlin. We made about eighty-seven dollars on this play with which we have helped many organizations in school.

For a short time during the third period Miss Kerlin tried to teach us how to march. Under her direction, we greatly improved, but we still have a lot to learn before we can be called good.

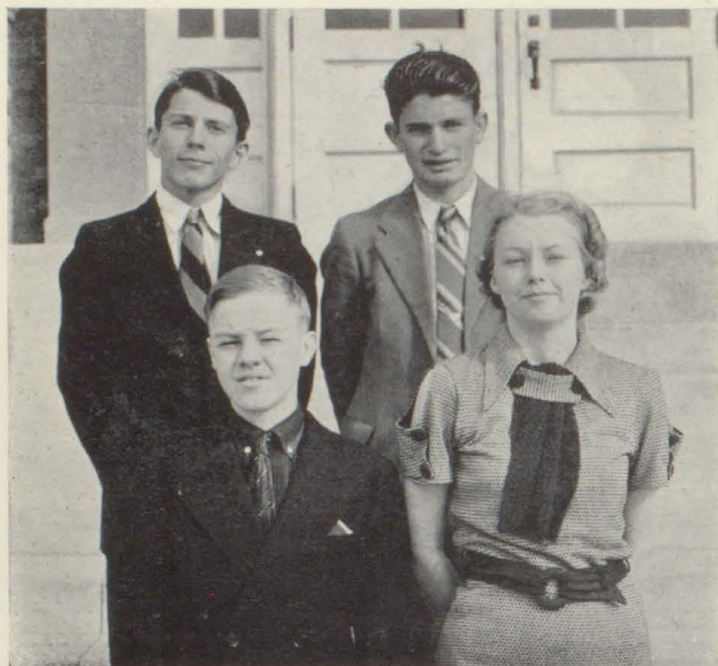

We made letters and drills for most of the basketball and football games. Although once in a while they were pretty poor, sometimes they were fairly good.

Miss Walliman was our sponsor for the first semester and part of the second. After she left, we elected Miss Oare to take her place.

Early in February, ten energetic students reported at the first debate meeting of the year. The tryouts were scheduled for February 24 and 25, from which four students were chosen to represent Winslow High School at the Northern Arizona Academic Contest at Flagstaff on April 2.

In these tryouts two questions were debated. Norma Baldwin and Franklin Martin opposed Richard Godsell and William Burney on the question, Resolved: That the U. S. should adopt compulsory unemployment insurance. On the second question, Resolved: That the U. S. should adopt the British system of broadcasting and control, Walter Sorensen, Kent Winn, and Alan Anderson upheld the affirmative, while Elizabeth Darling, Ralph Edwards, and Patsy Black debated the negative.

The four students chosen from the tryouts to participate in the contest at Flagstaff were Elizabeth Darling, Franklin Martin, Alan Anderson, and Kent Winn. Under the guidance of Miss Verla Oare these four students began work upon the question, Resolved: That all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated.

After three weeks of hard work, these four students appeared at Flagstaff to represent Winslow in the debate tournament. At the contest they ran up against such experienced teams as those from Prescott which had won places at a Phoenix tournament.

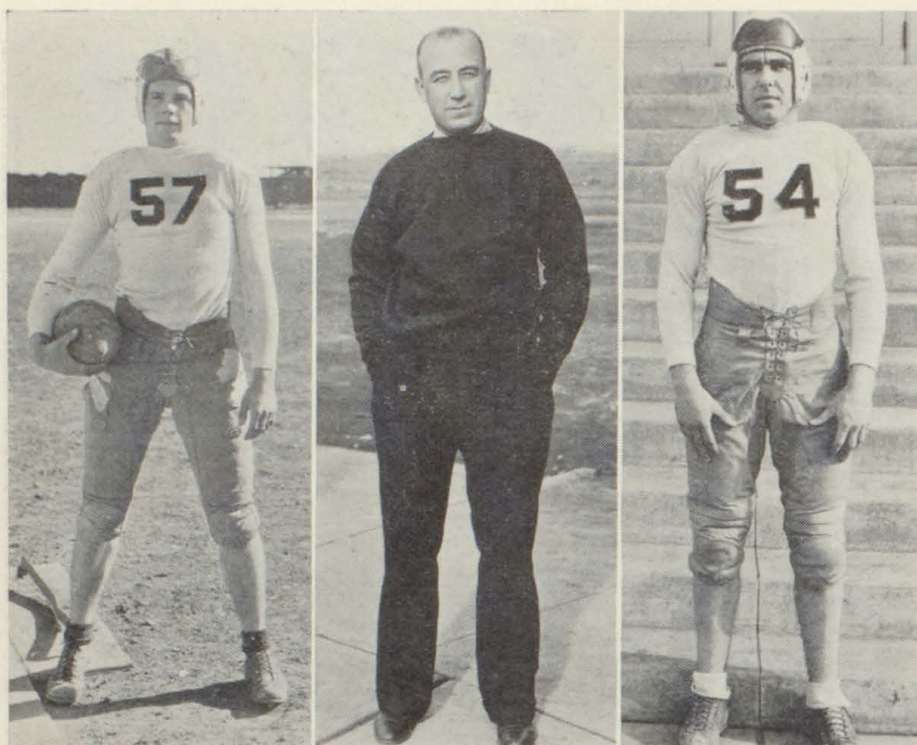

The first three debates were round robins, in which all eight teams present took part. From the eight teams the four best teams were chosen to debate in the semi-finals. These four teams consisted of one team from Prescott, one team from Snowflake, and both teams from Winslow.

Winslow's affirmative team consisting of Alan Anderson and Kent Winn was eliminated in the semi-finals when they lost a 2-1 decision in favor of Snowflake. Winslow's negative team consisting of Elizabeth Darling and Franklin Martin won a unanimous decision over the Prescott team, thus placing them in the finals with the Snowflake team.

The final debate was held in Ashurst Auditorium at seven on Friday evening. The Snowflake team won the finals, thus placing Snowflake first, Winslow negative team second and Winslow affirmative team third. Trophies were presented to both the Snowflake and Winslow teams.

As Winslow High's football season got under way it looked as if there might be a championship team in the thirty-four candidates who reported for practice. With Captain Charles McPhetridge, Co-captain Philip Dietz, Ed Murphy, Bill Richardson, Bob Sherer, Jack Brennan, Charles Reeder, Thomas Andrade, and Taiche Hirokawa as letter-men for a nucleus, the season looked promising. The following men were also out: Merlin Jensen, Earl Benham, Gene Cross, Burton Bushman, Preston Bushman, Valentino Lopez, Walter Sorensen, Jimmy Savage, Tom Murphy, Bob Kleindienst, Don McAllister, Edwin Parry, Billy Kieran, Dante Ianni, Duane Shumway, L. D. Bostick, Joe Trujillo, Veach

Willis, Deyo Pollock, Ed Marquez, Jack McPhetridge, Roger Stiles, Clive Foy, Joe Voelker, and Ribelo Ianni.

J. B. Wilson built the Winslow High School football team. The Bulldogs had an excellent team and came out on top in all but one of their seven contests. From the brief summary of the games you can see the 1936 season was a success. The first game of the Winslow gridiron season was played in Winslow against the Gallup Tigers. The game started even and was played to a tie during the first quarter. Late in the second quarter McPhetridge received a pass from Dietz and ran fifty yards for a touchdown. After the first half, Gallup seemed to go to pieces and Winslow ran up five more touchdowns and four extra points to out-score Gallup to the tune of 40 to 0.

Winslow journeyed to St. Johns the next week to scalp the Indians by a 32 to 6 margin. Winslow opened the scoring early in the game and continued throughout the course of the game. Only once in the third quarter did St. Johns show some good football and made their only touchdown but never did the Indians press the Bulldogs.

The third game of the season was at Clarkdale against the Clarkdale Wolves. The Bulldogs ran up against some real football, more than they had yet encountered during the season. Winslow scored early in the first quarter after considerable trouble in moving down the field. Clarkdale got going late in the last half and made its lone counter. Winslow scored twice more, once in the second quarter and again in the fourth. The final score was 18 to 6 in favor of the Bulldogs.

On October 16, the Bulldogs again took to the road and journeyed to Holbrook to play the Holbrook Road-runners. Winslow scored a touchdown on the third play of the game when McPhetridge ran off guard for twenty-three yards and the first tally. Holbrook came back to recover a fumble made by Benham and turned it into a score. In the third quarter Holbrook again scored via air route. Winslow's Bulldogs retaliated with a touchdown, Dietz to McPhetridge, but Holbrook again came back with another pass that made a touchdown. At the end of the second quarter the score was Winslow 19, Holbrook 20. Throughout the third quarter neither could cross the line into pay dirt. In the third quarter the Bulldogs started a drive that almost began too late. Driving the ball to the one-yard line, the Bulldogs were penalized five yards for offside. On the fourth down Captain McPhetridge took the ball over with only ten seconds left to play, making the final score 25 to 20 with Winslow on the heavy side.

The Winslow Bulldogs played on the home field the next week, downing the Prescott Badgers 30 to 0. The Winslow team worked together beautifully with Dietz, McPhetridge, and Hirokawa each ringing up one tally and Benham making two. Winslow started the scoring when Dietz threw a pass to McPhetridge who fumbled after running about five yards. However, Benham fell on the ball behind the goal line for the first tally. Hirokawa made the second score after gaining twelve yards around end. Benham again scored through center for the third time. Dietz made the fourth touchdown then, the fifth and final score.

After five consecutive wins the Winslow Bulldogs bowed to the Jerome Muckers. Offering no excuses for the loss, but merely for a review of the weather conditions, we might say that it started to rain the evening before the game and rained all night and throughout the next day's game.

Scoring started in the second quarter when Jerome recovered a punt on the Winslow twenty-five yard line. The Muckers advanced the ball to the one yard line where Winslow held it for three downs, but on the fourth the Muckers crossed the stripe for the first touchdown. Late in the third quarter Jerome scored again when they ran a punt back ninety yards for a touchdown. In the final quarter neither team gained considerably and the score was 12 to 0 in favor of Jerome.

On November 11, the Bulldogs played their seventh game of the season against the Flagstaff Eagles. Winslow took the ball on the kickoff and never lost possession of it until they had scored a touchdown. In the second quarter the Eagles scored on a double lateral. The Bulldogs, however, scored again in the fourth quarter, making the final score 13 to 6 in favor of W. H. S.

The Winslow Bulldogs opened the 1936-37 basketball season with a trip to Gallup, New Mexico, where they lost a game to the Sacred Heart School on Friday night, December 11, but won from Gallup High School on the following night. The following Wednesday, December 18, the Bulldogs met the Wickenburg Wranglers. Here the Bulldogs seemed to be hitting their stride and won an easy victory. The next night in a game with the Phoenix Indian School, the Bulldogs came out on the wrong end of the score, losing 17 to 30. This was due mostly to their inability to hit the basket. The following Monday, December 23, when the Bulldogs stepped on the floor they were not so "cocky" so they played a real brand of basketball, winning their second game over Gallup High School 32 to 22.

During the Christmas vacation the basketball squad made a trip into the Salt River Valley. Leaving December 20, some members went by car and some by train. The first game was played the night of the twenty-ninth with the Indian School on their open air court. During this game the Bulldogs played as though they had never played before, and when the final whistle blew the score was Winslow 41, Indian School 19. The following night, December 30, the Bulldogs won an easy victory over Scottsdale. In order to save his best players for the following night, Coach Wilson played his second string during most of the game. On December 30 the Bulldogs met the Buckeye five. The Bulldogs were behind until the fourth quarter got under way, but from that time on the Bulldogs did not seem to miss a shot, winning the game 36 to 26. New Year's Day the Bulldogs played their last game in the Valley. This game was again with the Phoenix Indians. At no time during this game was either team very far ahead and the game ended Winslow 38, Indian School 30.

Having gained much experience from their non-conference games, the Bulldogs started their conference games with a winning spree that lasted throughout the season. The first game of the season was played with the Flagstaff Eagles on the Bulldogs' court. This seemed to be an easy victory for the Bulldogs and they won 38 to 22. On January 9, 1937, the Bulldogs played Prescott at Prescott. During the first half the Bulldogs had made only 8 points to their opponents' 14. During the third quarter the Bulldogs gained, but could not forge ahead. The last quarter of this game was the fastest game the Bulldogs played during the whole season. They finally slipped in the last three baskets, winning the game 26 to 20. On January 16 the Bulldogs beat Holbrook 32 to 14 at Holbrook. On January 22 the Bulldogs beat the Jerome Muckers 32 to 15 at Jerome and the following night won a 21 to 12 victory over Clarkdale.

Following the Jerome-Clarkdale games, the basketball players received the thrill they had been hoping for, the game with the All-American Redheads, a team with girl players only. The Redheads were favored to win but as the game got well under way, it seemed as though the Bulldogs were too fast for the girls. When the game ended, the Bulldogs were on the top side of the 25 to 22 victory. During the game the Bulldogs wore their new satin suits given to them by the Pep Squad.

On January 29, the Bulldogs tangled with the Holbrook Roadrunners, this time playing neck and neck until the last few seconds of play, when the Bulldogs ranked one that gave them a one-point lead. The final score was Winslow 23, Holbrook 22. The Bulldogs continued their winning streak the following week-end by winning two consecutive victories.

Friday, they beat Williams at Williams, 24-15; and Saturday they beat Seligman 25-5 on the local court. February 12 the Bulldogs played their return game with Jerome, winning 22-16. The following week-end the Bulldogs played a return game with the Flagstaff Eagles in the "cracker box" court at Flagstaff. After a pretty tough battle the bulldogs won 22-19. The next night Winslow won its return game with the Williams five by a score of 43-13.

The last game of the season was played with Snowflake High School on the Bulldogs' court. The Snowflake five were given a small edge over the Bulldogs and it looked as though the Bulldogs were to lose the game that was to decide whether or not they were to be champions. As the game got well under way the Bulldogs took the lead and held it throughout the game. The Snowflake five pushed the Bulldogs all the way, never more than two or three baskets behind, but they never seemed to have the everlasting fight like that of the Bulldogs. The final score was 26-17.

The Bulldogs won every conference game, making them champions of the north. The University of Arizona invited the Bulldogs to the State Tournament held on the Arizona Campus March 4-5-6. Leaving early the morning of the third, the Bulldogs reached Tucson in time for a short workout. March 4 the Bulldogs tangled with Ajo, one of the toughest teams in the south and lost by a score of 14 to 20. The following day the Bulldogs met the Tucson five, and although the Bulldogs outplayed them the last half, they couldn't overcome the large lead Tucson had gained during the first half. The team was allowed to stay in Tucson until March 6 to watch the rest of the games. Peoria won the championship and Tucson the consolation. Although the Bulldogs did not bring home the "bacon" in games won, they did in sportsmanship. The judges of the contest were asked to pick the team having shown the best sportsman's conduct and on the first ballot Winslow was tied with Benson. On the second ballot Benson won by one vote.

The Bulldogs closed the basketball season with twenty victories out of twenty-two games. The Bulldogs set a record in games won by winning eighteen consecutive games.

Olmsted's second squad was divided into four different teams, each having a captain and a few substitutes. The following were members:

With Coach Olmsted at the head of the forty-four men out for track, Winslow High School should have a fine squad. With Ed Bell, the second Jesse Owens, as captain of the Winslow team, Winslow's chances of winning the invitational meet are good.

The first meet of the year, the interclass contest, was held on April 10. The juniors won first with a total of $64\frac{1}{2}$ points; sophomores were second with 41 points; seniors, $39\frac{1}{2}$ points; freshmen, 20 points. Four new records were made. Ed Bell set two of them: one in the hundred yard dash which he made in 10.2 seconds, and one in the broad jump in which he jumped 20 feet. Don Barris raised the discus record of 95 feet 11 inches to make a new record of 103 feet $9\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Merlin Jensen broke the javelin throw record with a throw of 122 feet 6 inches.

Coach Olmsted is working hard to get the squad and the track ready for the invitational meet which will held April 24. Winslow has a bright outlook and we hope Winslow will be successful.

BAND

With the exception of one year, the band has obtained first place at the Northern Arizona Music Contest at Flagstaff up to the present time. The band has given many concerts and has played for many activities. Some of the funds were used to complete the cap outfit.

On May 13 the Band Boosters Club sponsored a dance in order to raise funds for a tour in the northern part of the state. Places that were visited on this tour were Jerome Clarkdale, Williams, Flagstaff, and Grand Canyon. Those participating in numbers outside of the band on the tour were as follows: Everita Talbert, Dorothy Butler, and Betty Stiles in girls' trio; Frank Nelson, solo clarinet; Franklin Martin, solo trombone; Everita Talbert, soprano solo; and Dorothy Butler, alto solo.

After the tour, the band practiced hard and continuously for the contest at Flagstaff in April.

The curtain rose on the dramatic season at Winslow High School this year with a play given by the Pep Squad. Since there had not been a mystery play in many years, the girls decided to produce a thrilling English play entitled "Ladies in Waiting," by Cyril Campion. This play featured an all-girl cast, and was staged with the help of the boys in the speech class under the direction of Miss Kerlin. Miss Walliman, sponsor of the Pep Squad, supervised the sets and properties. The audience was shocked to rigid attention with the train of hair-raising events. The climax came when it was discovered that the perpetrator of all the crimes was a meek young girl whom everyone thought perfectly harmless. The villainess threw herself from the window. The second act was enlivened by the addition of a new boudoir set which was made especially for the play.

A sparkling, clever, modern comedy, "Your Uncle Dudley," provided the senior class a vehicle for the display of their annual play. The trials of a man overrun with relatives who prevented his true personality to shine forth made a rollicking comedy. Uncle Dudley's love affair was a situation that everyone enjoyed. The almost unbelievable situations which the characters managed to get into kept the audience weak with laughter. The play was directed by Miss Kerlin, and the production was handled by the senior class.

The prize line was given by Grandma when she said, "Dudley only has one kidney and that's floating."

The Bard of Avon made his appearance for one of the few times on the stage of Winslow High School, February 24, 1937. "Much Ado About Nothing," William Shakespeare's famous comedy, was presented by members of the speech class. This play was placed in a sixteenth century setting, and authentic costumes of this period were worn in the production.

There were two delightful light comedies, "Red Carnations," a comedy of situation, in which the name "Smith" gets very involved; and "The Neighbors," a comedy of characters, in which the characters get rather muddled up over a momentous event in their lives. The plays were produced by the speech class under the direction of Miss Kerlin and the work of Gene Cross, the stage manager, and his crew.

"Copy," a newspaper drama, was produced by an all-man cast. This play portrays the tension and excitement which newspaper men live under constantly. The awful strain and terrible tragedy of some of their lives is shown vividly in this play.

The dramatic season of 1936-1937 at Winslow High School closed with a production of “Tons of Money,” presented by the Junior Class on May 7. It is a glittering comedy of modern times in which the characters tangle themselves up in deaths and reincarnations. The play is based on a hoax planned and executed to bring about riches to a stranded family; but something goes wrong, and the result is panic and excitement that makes a clever, witty comedy. The play was directed by Miss Kerlin, and ably staged by members of the Junior Class.

BULLDOG RUMPUS

"Look! Here comes the parade!" was the cry of everybody on the afternoon of November 21, 1936, as the parade of the third annual "Bulldog Rumpus" marched through the town. The band led the parade of floats from each class. The parade started at the high school, proceeded through the town, and returned to the school.

With everyone back in the building, hot dog stands, fortune telling booths, candy stands, and all sorts of concessions grew in no time. Side shows were surprisingly created; the auditorium was decorated in true carnival style; and the throne of the King and Queen was built.

At seven in the evening, the front doors were opened and crowds began to swarm in and out of the side-shows where barkers were crying aloud their attractions.

The show of sideshows seemed to be "A Night in Hollywood," since this took in a goodly sum. Everyone worked up an appetite running around the halls, as plenty of hot dogs were consumed. This concession cashed in the most money. Other outstanding shows and concessions were: Major's Amateur Hour, the Hill Billy Band, "A Maiden in Distress," the Fish Pond, and the Dart Throw.

As nine o'clock came 'round the doors of the auditorium swung open, seats were filled, and the annual floor show was underway. As the curtain rose, the audience found a boy and girl from each senior high class on the stage awaiting the announcement as to whom had been elected by popular vote for the King and Queen of the Carnival. Betty Stiles was crowned Queen, having as her King, Charles McPhetridge. The King and Queen, followed by their attendants were seated on the throne at the rear of the hall.

At this time the juniors were awarded five dollars for having the best float in the parade. Their float was a covered wagon of the Days of '49.

The floor show consisted of singing, dancing, and a short skit; all of which were student presentations. The floor show was arranged by Miss Walliman and Patricia Black. After the last number of the floor show, the auditorium was cleared so that the dance might proceed. The auditorium had been decorated with balloons and crepe streamers in true carnival fashion. The orchestra's music was peppy. Everyone danced until "Home Sweet Home" was played, thus ending the third annual "Bulldog Rumpus."

The profits of the carnival went to help finance The Meteor.

ACADEMIC CONTEST

Differing from former years, inasmuch as the Scholastic and Music contests were held on separate dates, the Scholastic meet was held in Flagstaff on April second and third with Winslow winning first honors for the third consecutive year. The award for this achievement is a seventy-five dollar scholarship. Winslow had six first places, four seconds and four thirds.

Frankie Edwards won first in typing with a net speed of sixty-seven words per minute, while Emi Matsudi took second with sixty words per minute. Gladys deVore was "tops" in second-year shorthand.

In woodworking, Burton Bushman won first in first-year work and Lawrence Buckley won first in the second-year group. Albert Kutcher was first in mechanical drawing. Are we proud of these boys—and how!

In mathematics Jack Brown and Franklin Martin won second places in algebra and geometry respectively. Second place in chemistry was won by Bill Burney and third place in biology was taken by Franklin Martin.

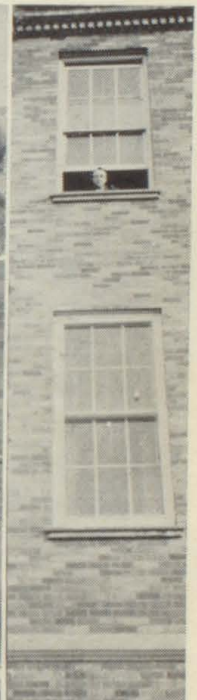

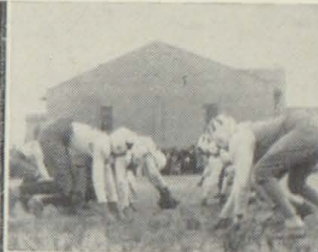

Representatives of the English and speech departments who placed in the contest were Helen Bazell, placing third in senior English, Betty Stiles, third in humorous reading, and John Nelson, third in extemporaneous speech. Phillip Lancaster walked away with first in the Constitution test.

The debate team consisting of Franklin Martin and Elizabeth Darling took second place and that of Kent Winn and Alan Anderson third.

All in all, we made 47½ points, and Prescott, our nearest competitor, made 43½. One hundred seventy-four contestants entered the meet. Those from Winslow were:

SOCIETY

PEP SQUAD DANCE: The Winslow High School Pep Squad had the honor of setting the ball rolling for the social season of Winslow High School when they sponsored the first dance of the year on September 18.

CO-ED DANCE: The student council sponsored one of the best dances of the year. The tables were turned, for this time the girls escorted their best boy friends to the dance. There were several specials and prize dances. Everyone enjoyed an evening of fun.

SENIOR-FACULTY PICNIC: On the evening of October 5, the seniors and the faculty took time off and went on a picnic. Clear Creek was the scene of this outing. After eating a very good meal, the group sang old favorite songs to the accompaniment of a guitar. School was forgotten, for the time being, and everyone seemed to enjoy himself.

SENIOR-SOPHOMORE DANCE: Ushering in the Santa Claus season with a dancing party for their friends, high school alumni, and members of the student body, the senior and sophomore classes acted as hosts for a delightful affair the evening of December 23. Brayman's furnished the music for the informal affair.

CARNIVAL: One of the most outstanding events of the school year is the crowning of the king and queen of the Bulldog Rumpus. This event took place before the dance. Art Mahan, the Student Body President, presided. Betty Jean Stiles as Queen and Charles McPhetridge as King were acclaimed by the audience. To represent the carnival spirit Brayman's orchestra furnished the music.

JUNIOR-FRESHMAN DANCE: Dancing to the rhythm of Brayman's seven-piece orchestra, the junior and freshman classes entertained their fellow classmates and friends at their annual dance, the evening of March 12, from nine until twelve. The snappy music numbers made up for the lack of decorations and programs.

BAND DANCE: In order to assist the band in making a much coveted tour of Northern Arizona, the Band Booster club sponsored a dance at the Arcadia Hall, March 13. Dancing started promptly at ten and lasted until early morning. The chaperones of the dance consisted of the faculty, parents, and friends of the students who are interested in promoting the school activities.

PROM: The juniors, this year, climaxed a highly successful social season with a prom that was the outstanding social event of the year. It was held on May 21, 1937, at eight o'clock. The decorated hall made a suitable setting for the dancers, and the orchestra furnished delightful music.

HOP: The last dance the seniors, as a class, will ever sponsor was held May 28, at the high school auditorium. The senior girls wore their class day dresses, which were very attractive. The evening ended with everyone in high spirits, except perhaps the hosts.

COUNCIL PICNIC: We have always known that the spring season is usually ushered in by an epidemic of picnics. In order to be sure that other organizations had the right example set, the Winslow High School student council rushed the season and celebrated Washington's birthday by picnicking at Sunset Pass. Everyone contributed to the lunch. Mr. and Mrs. Booth were the chaperones.

ASSEMBLIES

On the tenth of September, Mr. Grieder called the first assembly of the year for the purpose of installing the newly elected student body officers. Each new officer was introduced and the new president was presented the gavel. During the football and basketball seasons the Pep Squad held pep assemblies almost every Friday.

The public speaking class held an election assembly on November 2, the day before the election. At this assembly the platforms of the leading presidential candidates were presented in a panel discussion.

In December the music department decided to demonstrate its wares. Mr. Ostlie called an assembly in which the boys' and girls' glee clubs and the band took part. The day school was dismissed for the Christmas holidays, the Student Council presented a Christmas assembly comprised of skits. Oh! yes, and there was Santa Claus, of course, to wish everybody a Merry Christmas.

Next along the line came the senior assembly on February 19. This was a Washington's Birthday assembly with the usual patriotic play, skits and speeches. On February the juniors gave their annual assembly. This class had a tap dance, vocal solo, several readings, and two short plays. The A Capella choir from Flagstaff Teachers College presented several numbers the day before the junior assembly. This was a dress rehearsal for the choir for the following week-end when they broadcasted over K.T.A.R.

In March we had our first pay assembly. Madam Hoff presented her Five Nations show presenting Venezuela, Hawaii, Holland—and the backwoods part of the United States.

The sophomore class continued the class assemblies by giving a play, a pantomime, a trombone solo, a piano solo, and two readings.

Before the band went on its tour of Northern Arizona, Mr. Ostlie again called an assembly for the purpose of ironing out all the faults of the band. Most of the selections that were to be played on the tour were given in the assembly. On April 27, the Student Council called an assembly for the purpose of introducing the candidates for student body offices of 1938. Campaign speeches (introducing many arguments) and platforms were given. The following day the Indian Scouts gave an interesting assembly, giving group drills and formations. One of the boys entertained the student body with several Indian songs.

On May 26, the senior class gave their last assembly (also the last school assembly of the year) for Winslow High. The class will and prophecy were read and a farewell address was given by President Charles McPhetridge.
